Aromatherapy

Aromatherapy treatments using essential oils provide us with a whole range of benefits. They can help with many common disorders in a holistic way. Together with a healthy lifestyle, aromatherapy can get to the root of an illness even before symptoms develop. Aromatherapy treatments have psycho-therapeutic benefits as well as affecting the physical state of the body. When the essential oils are used, either through massage, in a bath or by inhalation, the aroma will influence your psyche while the oils work on the tissues and organs of your body. Essential oils are readily absorbed through the skin & carried to all parts of the body. Before they are finally eliminated by the body, the oils will continue to influence your system for several hours to several days (length of time differs for each person).
